"Mourful is the tale."

Died, suddenly, on Sunday evening, in this town, RICHARD TERRELL Esq. of Jefferson county. The sudden and unexpected death of this gentleman, it is supposed was occasioned by apoplexy. He was an affectionate and tender husband, an indulgent parent and a respectable man, whose loss will be severely felt by his family and friends.

LANCASTER, September 22.

DIED, on the 13th inst. of a Cancer in his groin, at Newtown, Bucks county, whether he had gone for a cure, ROBERT DICKSON, one of the Editors of this paper, in the 37th year of his age; and on the Tuesday following, his remains were interred in the Presbyterian burial ground of that place.

The circumstances that led to his death were gradual and distressing. A sore on his leg, unattended to in early life, increased by degrees until amputation was found necessary; which operation was performed about 18 months ago. After enduring so much, he had more to undergo. From the vivified humor, a cancer increased; under which he long suffered with much tortitude and Christian resignation. His death is feelings languished by his relations, and sincerely regretted by all who knew him. Benevolent and amiable through life, he lived and died without reproach. His duty to his God was always his nearest concern; and, in the hope of a glorious immortality, he welcomed his approaching end in peace and contentment. If a sincere Christian, an obedient citizen, and amiable companion be acceptable in heaven; then do we believe he has received the happy plaudit, "Well done thou good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

(Intelligencer.)

It is well known that in Egypt, India, and the hotter parts of America that abound with venomous serpents, there are certain individuals who possess the power of entirely disarming these formidable animals, and are able to handle them with perfect impunity, at the very time that any other person approaching them incautiously would be fatally convinced of their ability to destroy. This happy exemption is attributed by the people themselves to the preventative effects of certain vegetables, the knowledge of which has hitherto been carefully concealed.—Many of the European philosophers, have, however, treated the affair as a mere juggle. This state of uncertainty is now happily for humanity and science, relieved by the most important communication from Don Pedro D'Orbigny V Anges, through the medium of Count Rumford, which, if entirely to be depended upon, will entitle the communicator to high rank among the benefactors of mankind. Don Pedro is a native of Santo Fé, and, in the year 1785, being at Margarita, he met with a dove who possessed the power of charming the most venomous of the American serpents; after the negro had exhibited his skill, he was induced by a reward to promise to discover his secret. The next morning he returned with the leaves of a plant called Velutina de Grace, and having bruised them in the presence of Don Pedro, gave him two large spoons to drink; then, making three incisions between the fingers of each hand, he immoderately the Spanish with the same juice, and performed a similar operation on each foot, and on each side of the breast after which he informed him he was no longer accessible to the poison of serpents. Don Pedro then after making the negro answerable for any ill consequences, took into his hands several times one of the serpents that had been brought by the slave the day before, without receiving the smallest injury from the animal. Encouraged by the last attempt, two domestics, being in like manner prepared by the Oracle juice, went into the fields, and soon returned with another kind of serpent equally venomous with the former, without sustaining any hurt. Another person being similarly prepared, and afterwards bitten by a venomous serpent received no further injury than slight local inflammation. Since this period, Don Pedro has repeatedly caught serpents with his own hands with absolute impunity employed no farther preparation than merely drinking a little of the Guaco juice. The plant, whose effects are thus attested, has not yet been admitted into any botanical system, but it is amply described in a memoir by the Spanish gentleman, already mentioned, inserted in a weekly paper published at Santa Fé. It is not of the compound flowered or syringineous class. The flowers are five in number, united by their whorls into a cylinder, through which rises the pistil with a deeply divided summit. The corolla is monopetalous, infundibuliform, with five indentations, and of a yellow colour; each cell contains four florets, and several of these grow together, forming a corymbus; the seeds are broad and flattened; the root parous, perennal; the stem straight, cylindrical when young, but when old becomes pentagonal; leaves are heart shaped, opposite, a dark green mixed with violet, velvety on the upper surface. It grows by the sides of rivulets and in shady places, in the vicinage of Santa Fé.

PARIS, July 8.

The municipality of Montpelier, where the father of Bonaparte died on the 24th of February, 1785, have resolved to erect a monument. The following is to be the design of the monument: to the left a pedestal; in the middle of the town of Montpelier, accompanied by religion and other figures, pointing with the right to the pedestal, and raising the dead from the tomb; beneath this inscription:

Sors du Tombeau, ton fils, Napoléon, T'éleve à l'Immortalité.

NASSAU, (N. Y.) August 8.

On Monday, arrived off the Bar, the American brig Warren, Capt. Eddy, 5 days from Cape Francois.—Capt. E. informed us that 8000 troops, and 5 sail of men of war had arrived at the Cape on the 3d inst., that the day after their arrival, the negroes, headed by Toussaint's sons, who had joined them, formed a fort not far from the Cape, and killed every Frenchman in it. The evening previous to Capt. E's sailing, an engagement took place near the town, that the report of the guns was distinctly heard by the people on board the vessels in the harbor. The event was not known. The French troops continue very sickly—particularly those last arrived from France.

Provisions were very low at the Cape, flour sold to low as 4 dollars per barrel.

GREENSBURG, September 24.

Seventy-one passengers have arrived, at quarantine, off New York, in the brig Orion, from Sligo in Ireland.

The relations in Rhode-Island have terminated in a manner favorable to the republican interest. Mr. Stanton and Knight are chosen for Congress, and a very large majority of the assembly are republican. A federal paper states the republican majority for the Congress ticket at 700—a republican print lays it to exceed 1000.

NEW-YORK, September 17.

Extract of a letter from an officer of the Constellation, dated May 24th, 1802, at sea.

"On the 18th inst. we arrived off Algiers, and made the signal for our consul to come on board which he did. Mr. O'Brien informs, that on the 8th inst., an Algerine frigate of 44 guns ran alongside a Portuguese frigate of the same force, fired a broadside into her, boarded and carried her with the loss of 32 men, the Portuguese having, in killed and wounded 72 men; among the former were the captain & first Lieutenant. The Portuguese was thrown entirely off his guard by the Algerine's having American colours, and his not having the least idea of meeting an Algerine in that place, being five leagues distant from Gibraltar and two from the Spanish shore. It is, however a great disgrace to the Portuguese navy, to be surprised in that manner, as no dependence ought to be placed in colours. O'Brien also informs that Spain in order to avoid a war threatened by the Algerines has very recently consented to pay to Algiers the enormous sum of two millions of dollars, and to alter her national colours—This, with the capture of the Portuguese frigate has exalted the Algerines that our consul says he expects the Dey will shortly, and at an unguarded moment declare war against the United States—I hope he may, and that we may have the honour of battering their towns about their ears. They will find us in a nation superior to either Spain or Portugal in the arts of war. By making them feel our power we should render the United States feared and respected by those Barbarians, and insure safety to the lives and property of our citizens in those seas.—Enclosed is the account Mr. O'Brien gives us of the strength of the regency of Algiers.

Algiers has about 50 gun boats, half of the number could be got in order in about a month. They have about 200 feet of coasters with lateen sails, each 20 or 30 tons. There are about 6,000 Turks, about 6,000 half Turks; and with difficulty they could raise 50,000 militia or troops. This regency has 50 or 60 million of dollars, and has in chained captivity

1500 Christians, and is permitted to be a licensed plunderer of all Europe.

(Signed) RICHARD O'BRIEN.

Extract of a letter from the same, dated

Tunis Bay, June 2, 1802.

"We brought with us presents from our government to the Bey of Tunis, they confisted of four muskets and four pair of pistols, surpassing for workmanship and elegance any thing you can almost imagine, being inlaid with gold and diamonds. You may suppose they were elegant when I tell you that one of the muskets cost £800 sterling the cost of the whole amounting to upwards of £7000 sterling. The Bey was much pleased with these presents, and observed to our consul that they were worthy of a prince. The Enterprise arrived here last evening from Tripoli. They tell us there are four Swedish frigates and one American (the Bolton) cruising round Tripoli and blocking the port to the nothing can either go in or out. The Tripolitans are in a state of starvation, and will probably be willing to come to any terms, in the course of a few weeks.

Yesterdays we had the gratification of walking over the ruins of the celebrated city of Carthage, Mr. Eaton, American consul, and Captain Murry, being of the party. We were shewn the plain on which Regulus the first Roman entered Africa in a hostile manner, fought a celebrated battle, and also the plain where Scipio and Hannibal fought a pitched battle. We saw the remains of many of the ancient temples and city walls. But what remains more perfect than any thing else is the aqueduct by which water was brought into the city from a mountain, by a route of seventy miles. We all dined together in one of the reservoirs, after fatiguing ourselves by walking over the ruins. I expect we shall fail to-morrow for Tripoli."

Extract of a letter from an officer of the Constellation, dated Tunis Bay June 2, 1802.

"I suppose that the affair of the Tunisian vessels being plundered by some of the crew of the Enterprise will be much misrepresented. With the view of removing any unfavorable impression, that may be made by a false account, I have been particular in obtaining the most accurate information and you may rely on the following as a true statement of facts. On the 5th ult. the Enterprise discovered a vessel that had come out of Tripoli, and made fast after her. Upon halting her, captain Sterret ordered Lieutenant Heath to board her, examine her papers, and search her. Lieutenant Heath boarded her and ordered three of his men to assist in looking for papers, but with positive orders not to take away any thing. While searching, one of the men found a watch, and another a purse of money, which they contrived to conceal. Upon returning the Tunisian halfed Lieutenant Heath, and told him he had been robbed. As soon as the boat got on board the Enterprise all the boat's crew were examined but nothing could be found upon them; they therefore concluded that the Tunisian had told a falsehood. On the 20th the same month the Enterprise arrived at Tunis. Upon going on shore, they heard that a Tunisian vessel had complained to the Bey of Tunis of having been robbed some days by an American Schooner. The officers of the Enterprise immediately searched the whole vessel and crew, for the articles mentioned and after a strict examination of the men confessed the fact.—They were instantly put into irons and are now on board the Bolton, to be tried.—Thus you see that both captain Sterret and Lieutenant Heath, so far from being in the least culpable made every exertion to detect and bring these villains to the punishment which they richly deserved."

NEW-YORK, September 18.

Letters are received in town, by the ship Shepherdess from Cape Francois, of so late a date as the 27th Aug. inst., which mention that all is perfectly tranquil there; that the markets are still; and that a great mortality prevails amongst the troops, of whom from 50 to 100 die daily.

The Courier de L'ordre, under the head of "Confintinople, March 25" has the following article: "a young Greek desperately enamored of a Turkish female, long time since converted Mahomedanism for the purpose of marrying her, but shortly after finding her for having purchased initial pleasure by the commission of a crime, he resolved to avenge his offence in a public manner: in the presence, therefore, of his wife, whom he compelled to accompany him to a Church of the Greek communion, he abjured his error in a manner so public, that he was taken into custody, and, in the course of the day, carried before the tribunal of the Garmacan; there too did he once more pronounce his recantations, and, in consequence, received instant sentence of death. He was executed on the 10th, at eleven o'clock in the morning. The joy with which this Greek proceeded to the place of execution, brought to our recollection the fervent and pious intrepidity of which we read instances in the volume of Martyrs.

His body, abhored by prostration to the executioner; but government was under the necessity of interfering, and caused it to be delivered for the valuable confederation of three purses; besides that sum, the executioner had received 500 dollars from the Patriarch, for having dipped a handkerchief in the victim's blood."

Extract of a letter from Savannah, Aug 19.

"An event took place this morning, which has spread through our streets, the deepest shades of melancholy—every citizen who revered worth and esteemed merit, are lamenting the death of William Hunter Esq. who this morning fell in a duel, with Col. E. Mitchel! I can easily picture to myself the agony of your feelings at this news, by the grief with which your bread is agitated; and I know you will be common with the other friends of the deceased, lament, in tears of sorrow, the fall of so valuable a citizen. The dispute had its origin in July last, in the county court, to the Jury of which Mr. Hunter was foreman, in a cause in which Mitchel was counsel. During the trial, it appeared to Mr. Hunter, that the examination of the evidence was not conducted by the counsel, with that impartiality which justice required; he addressed a few words to the court, when Mr. Mitchel got up, and observed, that Mr. Hunter was very officious on the occasion." Mr. H. replied, that officiousness of juries was not to be compared with the importance of certain attorney's.—There the matter rested until last Monday, when Mitchel attacked Mr. Hunter in the street, with a large bludgeon; Mr. H. having nothing to defend himself with; after receiving four blows, attempting at the same time to seize Mitchel, by the collar, he said, "Mr. Mitchel, I am unarmed—I must retreat unless you lay aside your weapon." Mr. H. then retreated to Dr. Kollock's shop, for a cane, but there was none there. By this time some citizens interferred, and they left the ground. The same evening, Mr. Hunter sent Mitchel a challenge, who, after much equivocation, accepted it. Dr. Kollock was Mr. Hunter's second. Major B. Maxwell was second to Mitchel. Mr. H. fired first, and hit Mitchel on the hip. Mitchel missed Mr. H. Mr. H's second hit him on the groin; also, without penetrating the skin—but Mr. H. received Mitchel's second ball in his right breast. Mr. Hunter immediately turned and exclaimed, "I am a dead man;"—and, as Doctors Glenn and Kollock caught him in their arms, he died for a glass of wine, and expired."

JONESBOROUGH, September 20.

We learn by a gentleman from Maryville, that about the beginning of the present month two Indians went to the house of Mr. [Baron] Runner, of Sevier county, they were brothers—one being intemperate, went to sleep, the other in good humor got to wrestling with Mr. Runner; and after being repeatedly thrown, waked up his brother & wished him to wrestle, who with some reluctance complied. Mr. Runner accidentally threw him on a chair—he died next day. Mr. Runner was apprehended and after examination discharged. A few days after, the surviving brother with four other Indians, waylaid the said from Mr. Runner's to his field, intending to kill him. His son, a young man, happening to be a few paces before him, the Indians were apprehended; five would discover them and probably make his escape as well as his father, they therefore fired, and killed him on the spot, they tomahawked him, and made off. On examining the body it was found that five balls had entered it. Our informant adds that the whole five Indians are known, and we doubt not measures will be taken to bring them to justice.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TO all whom it may concern—That we or one of us, will attend on the twenty-ninth day of October inst. and to continue from day to day, till the business is done, with the commissioners appointed by the county court of Clarke, at Peyton's Spring and improvement, in said county, on a small branch of the South Fork of Licking, about two hundred poles from Said's old mill on Stoner, to perpetuate the testimony of witnesses, to establish the several calls in an entry, made October the 6th 1780, and survey made in the name of Timothy Payton, on a pre-emption warrant of 1000 acres, on a small branch of the South Fork of Licking, including a remarkable Rock Spring, and an improvement made by Crittenden and Company—Then they to do such other things as they shall think necessary and the law requires.

For publishing by subscription,
AN
ABRIDGEMENT
OF THE
LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES, OR,
A complete Digest of all such Acts of Congress, as concern the United States at large.

By Wm. Garrison, Esq.

CONDITIONS.

I. This work shall commence with the laws passed at the first session of Congress, held after the adoption of the Federal Constitution, and end with those that may be enacted at the present session.

II. The whole will be comprised in one large octavo volume, of at least six hundred pages, and perhaps considerably more; it being impossible, till after the present session of Congress, to pronounce with accuracy.

III. It shall be printed on good paper, and type, and well bound, at 400 DOLLARS. No money will be required till the work is completed, of which notice will be given.—N.B. It is at present in considerable forwardness.

IV. The Constitution of the United States shall be prefaced, and an Appendix added, containing all existing Treaties, the Articles of Confederation, the Rules and Articles for the government of the Army, and the Ordinance for the government of the Territory North West of the Ohio.

V. Lists shall be given of the titles of all the laws under the several heads of "Abridged" "Repealed" "Expired" "Obsolete" and "Private or Local." Likewise, Tables of the rates of Duties, Post-Roads, and times of holding Courts throughout the United States.

The convenience of one book instead of six, the difference of the price (being only one third the rate of other editions,) and the superior advantage of having all the laws upon each particular subject clasped together, and brought into one view, will appear striking and important; particularly as this work will be more within the reach of every one, and will comprise whatever his duty or interest requires him to know of the supreme law of the land."

WILLIAM GRAYDON, Editor,
JOHN WYETH, Publisher.

* * * The work it is supposed will be finished by the 1st of January next.

A SHORT STORY.

JACK DASH in town a first rate beau;
Some time ago,
For near a month had never ventur'd out;
'T was wife; for Jack was poor; and what bepoke it?
Was that he had no money in his pocket?
And therefore was not quite prepar'd to meet
A friend of his, who fly in the fleet;
To tap him on the shoulder, lurk'd about.

A doctor's wife, hard by;
Who much delighted in his company,
For Jack to please the ladies had the skill,
Began to think him ill;
So sent her servant, Thomas, to assure him
That by tell disease he was, affil'd,
And would freely tell her what he aild,
She'd get some druggers that very day
would cure him.

The message hearing, thus replied young
Dash—
Friend Tom, then tell your mistress I will thank her,
As my disorder's only—want of cash,
To let the drafts be—on her husband's banker.
